DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of the restriction requirement in the reply filed on November 6, 2006 is acknowledged. The Applicant has canceled claims 77-111, withdrawn claims 11-18 and 36-37, and added new claims 112-114. Claims 1-10, 19-35, 38-76, and 112-114 will be examined.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-10, 19, 21-35, and 38-63, and 67-76 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hoyos (2002/0082993).

Hoyos discloses a method and corresponding system for automated financial transactions comprising an automated payment system for processing payment of an invoice sent from a payee to a customer, wherein the customer has a bank account at a payor bank and the payee has a bank account at a payor bank, a document scanning system having: an input receptacle for receiving the invoice and a check for an amount drawn on the customer's account, an image scanner, an output receptacle, a transport mechanism adapted to transport the invoice and the check from the input receptacle, past the image scanner, and to the output receptacle, the image scanner being adapted to obtain at least one image of the invoice and at least one image of the check, and a controller coupled to the transport mechanism and the image scanner, the controller adapted to control the transport mechanism and the image scanner, a first computer at the payor bank communicatively coupled to the document scanning system and adapted to receive the at least one image of the check and the at least one image of the invoice, the first computer is further adapted to debit the customer's account for the amount of the check; and a second computer at the payee bank communicatively coupled to the first computer and adapted to receive the at least one image of the check and the at least one image of the invoice from the first computer, wherein the first computer is further adapted to transmit funds in the amount of the check to the payee bank and the second computer is adapted to receive the funds and to credit the payee's account for the amount of the funds (p.1, 4-6, 10; p.3, 66-67; and p.3, 37 to p.4, 86). Hoyos discloses the claim limitations of the remaining claims (p.1, 4-6, 10; p.2, 25; p.3, 66-67; and p.3, 37 to p.4, 86).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3691

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 20, 64-66, and 112-114 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hoyos in view of Norris (6,105,007).

Hoyos discloses the invention substantially as claimed; however, Hoyos does not disclose an electronic signature pad and an electronic pen, the electronic signature pad adapted to receive a signature from the customer or a printer associated with either the first or second computer, the printer operable to print a substitute check from the at least one image of the check. Norris teaches a method and corresponding system for automatic financial account processing comprising an electronic signature pad and an electronic pen, the electronic signature pad adapted to receive a signature from the customer (col.7, lines 38-52) and a printer associated with either the first or second computer, the printer operable to print a substitute check from the at least one image of the check (col.4, lines 5-15). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to incorporate an electronic signature pad and an electronic pen, the electronic signature pad adapted to receive a signature from the customer and a printer associated with either the first or second computer, the printer operable to print a substitute check from the at least one image of the check, as taught by Norris into the invention disclosed by Hoyos, to provide a means for the customer to endorse and to allow the customer to reprint a check for record.
